

Jonathan Molina

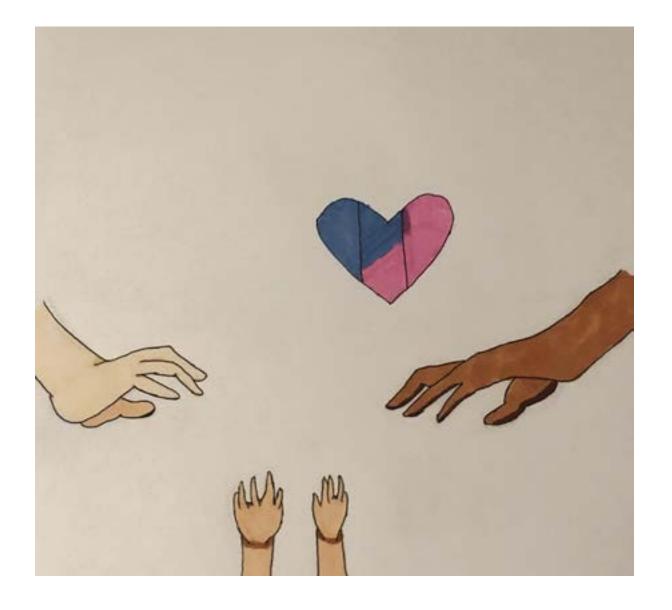

Children. We all have been one at one time. They are the future and are the key to our survival for many generations to come. whatever happens in there life is the thing that will stay with them and affect them for the rest of there life. Our duty is to carve a better life for them, not make future obstacles for them to deal with. we all have been a child before, Just Remember.

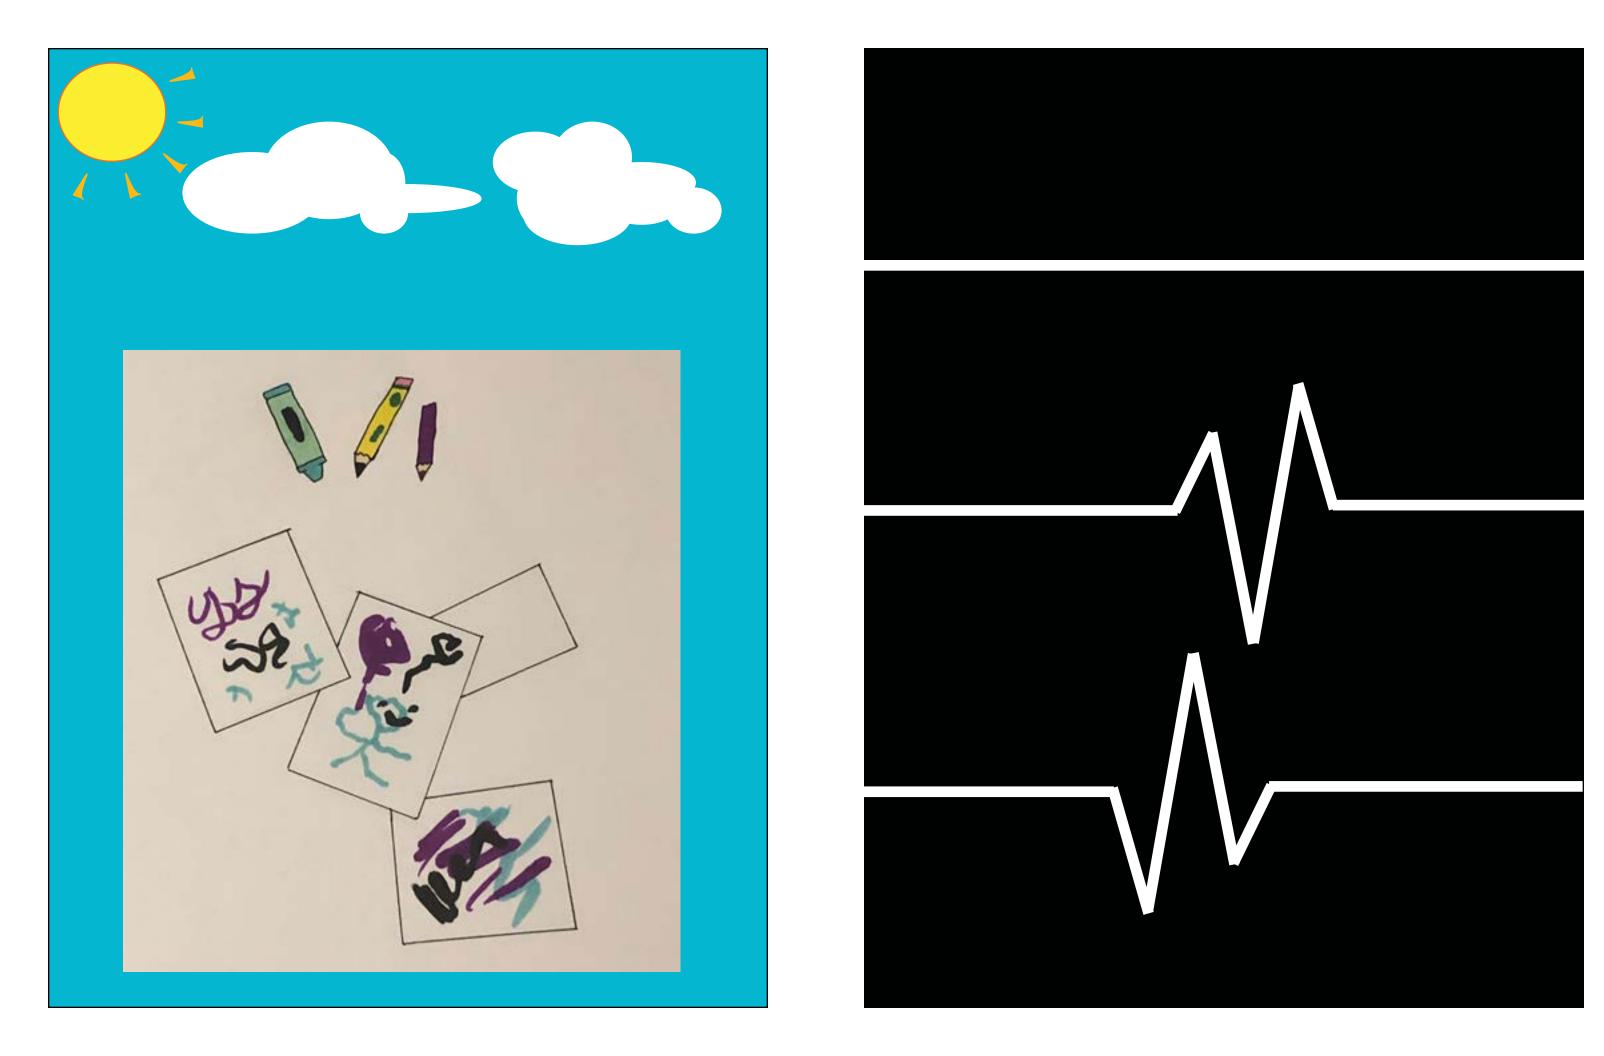

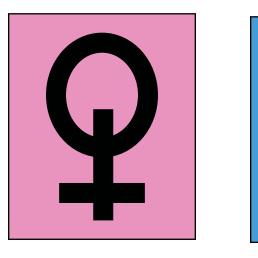

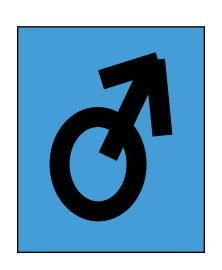

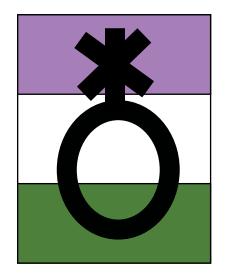

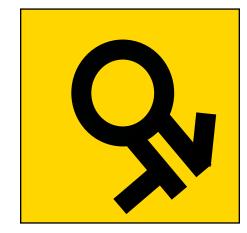

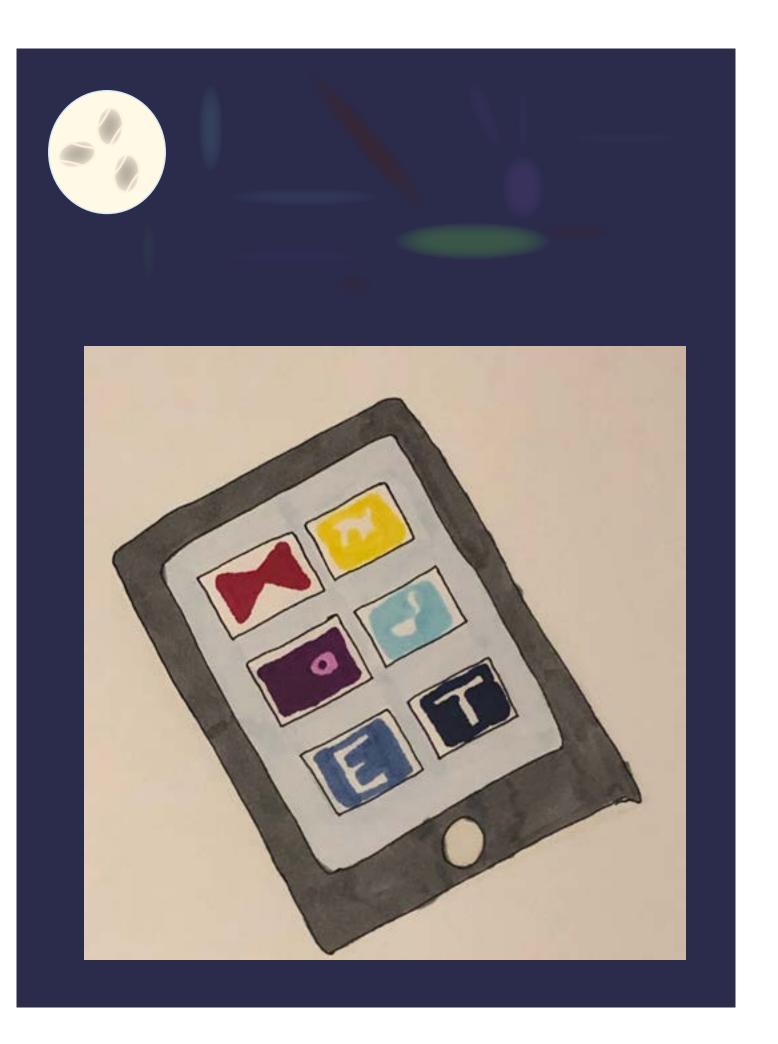

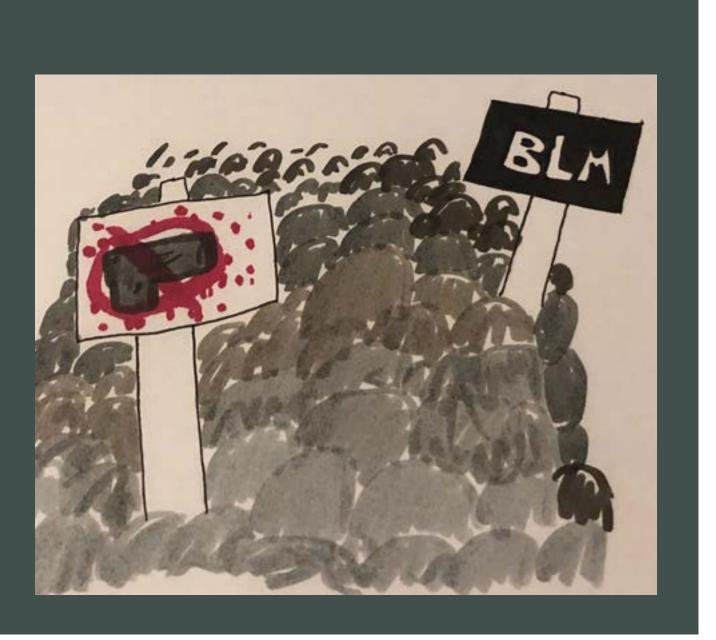

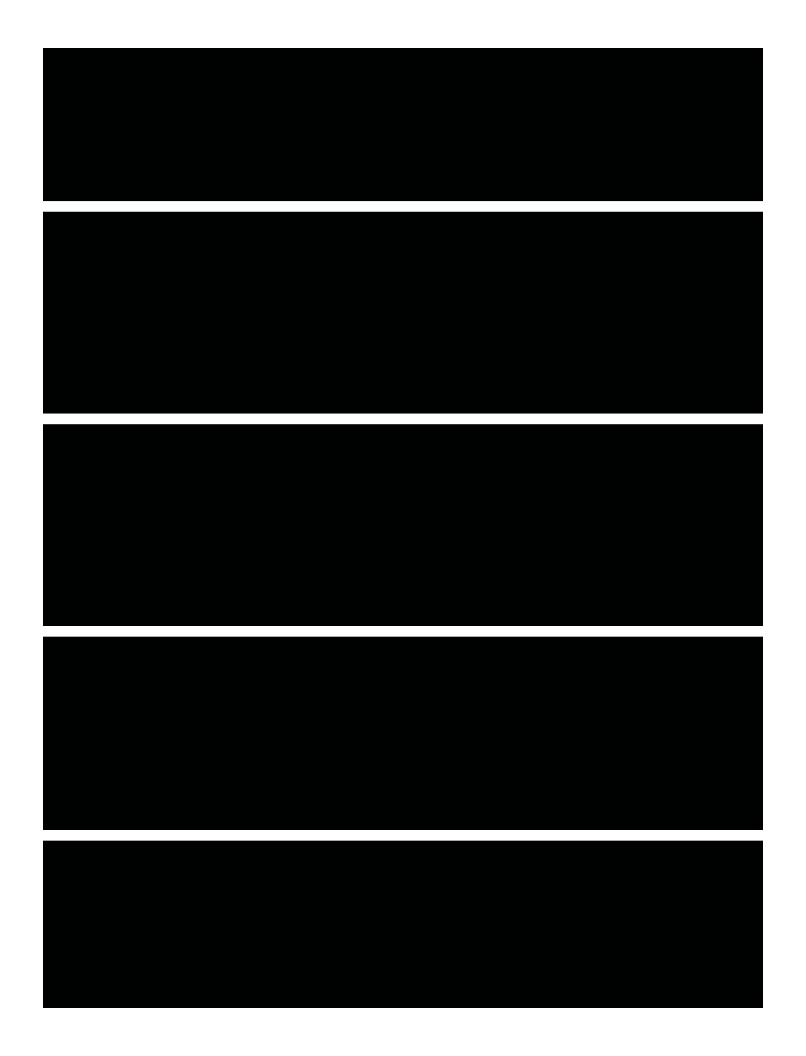

Just Remember. We All Have Been A Child Before.